APP was engaged by the Department of Defence Central Services Infrastructure Group (CSIG) in January 2002 as Project Manager for the design and construction of a new office facility for the F1-11 fighter plane administration division (Strike Reconnaissance Systems Program Office - SRSP0) at RAAF Base Amberley.

The project provided a 2100m² state-of-the-art secure facility for 160 staff.

Design commenced in April 2002 and construction completed by March 2003. Final Completion was achieved March 2004.

APP's role included:

- Stakeholder and User Group consultation
- Authority Approvals
- Contract Management
- Site inspections and reporting on progress of the works
- Commissioning
- Handover to CSIG & Users
- Management through DLP
- Management of additional works post occupation
- Final Completion & Reports

The design and installation of security and IT services to such a specialist facility presented a real challenge, particularly as the RAAF base had to remain operational and the Iraq War was also underway.

APP identified this and other requirements during the planning stages and developed strategies for managing these challenges throughout the project.

Through painstaking stakeholder consultations, APP ensured there was minimal disruption to the normal operation of the base and staff informed at every stage of any impact on their normal activities arising from the works. This allowed Base staff to manage their activities accordingly. The project was completed on time and with a seamless handover to the client.

Post occupation by SRSP0 there were extensive additional works requested by CSIG. APP also managed the delivery of these additional works with minimal disruption to the operations of SRSP0 and the Base.
